Re: Fire Safety in Schools

Dear Sir / Madam

The South African Fire and Medical Academy (SAFMA) have launched a pilot programme in February. This programme is based on fire safety at high schools.

We are pleased to advise you that we are willing to train 20 of your learners for one day at no cost to the school. The duration of this training will be approximately 4 - 5 hours on a Tuesday and a Thursday, starting at 09h30 till 14h30. Booking in advance is essential. Training will be held at SAFMA premises.

Every Tuesday and Thursday we will have a different school therefore bookings is important to avoid disappointment

The training will include the following:

- What to do when a fire is discovered
- Reaction to fire emergencies
- Theory of combustion
- Fire spread and control
- Live fire demonstrations and participation
- Effective use of fire extinguishers
- Confined space entrapment

It is advisable for learners to wear old clothing (no woolie jerseys please). A light lunch, will be provided by SAFMA.

SAFMA works within the framework of the South African Qualifications Authority (SAQA) and practice outcomes based education whereby skills, abilities and competencies are demonstrated.

SAFMA is accredited by the South African Maritime Safety Association, Department of Labour and Transport and Education Seta. Our instructors are qualified trainers with credentials from the International Fire Service Training Association (USA) and Health Professions Council of South Africa. They will be receiving a certificate after the Safety program.

In addition to this SAFMA would like to place a 1m x 1m board on your school's premises ,at a place designated by yourself ,this board will display your school's name and our company details.

Yours in Training

Yusuf Allie

Department Head
